Silver 91.8000 ▲ 5.66% | Russell 2000 2,287.93 ▲ 0.55% | Gold 2,948.30 ▲ 0.64% | EUR/USD 1.0842 ▲

etf simulator

Sign Out

My Portfolios

1/3 used (Free tier) · Values update in real time · Logged in as DuKeNukEmZ

+ New ETF

Springfield Cultural Impact ETF

SPFD AGGRESSIVE PUBLIC

The Springfield Cultural Impact ETF seeks to capitalize on thematic investment opportunities inspired by cultural and ec...

MCD CCJ XOM ROK SPOT BTC CORN LYV +2

$950,000 -5.00% Fee: 0.35% · ● LIVE (crypto)

Overview | Holdings (10) | Transactions (10) | Performance | Rebalance | Compare

#	TYPE	HOLDING	WEIGHT	VALUE	DAY CHG	P&L
01	STOCK	MCD McDonald's Corporation Entry: $341 Now: $341 503.38 shares Core · high conviction	18.1%	$171,687	+0.00%	+0.0%
02	STOCK	CCJ Cameco Corporation Entry: $118 Now: $118 1,159.94 shares Satellite · high conviction	14.4%	$137,349	+0.00%	+0.0%
03	STOCK	XOM Exxon Mobil Corporation Entry: $153 Now: $153 750.50 shares Core · medium conviction	12.0%	$114,458	+0.00%	+0.0%
04	STOCK	ROK Rockwell Automation, Inc. Entry: $407 Now: $407 252.82 shares Growth Kicker · high conviction	10.8%	$103,012	+0.00%	-0.0%

📌 Inspired by last week's Simpsons episode featuring a fast-food joint resembling Krusty Burger, MCD captures the cultural trope of quick-service dining central to Springfield's lifestyle.

McDonald's is a defensive yet growth-oriented play with strong global brand equity and consistent revenue streams. Recent earnings showed 8% YoY same-store sales growth, driven by digital ordering and menu innovation. Its high dividend yield adds stability to an aggressive portfolio, while consumer discretionary exposure aligns with episode-driven themes.

Global fast-food chain operating thousands of restaurants worldwide.

📌 Tied to Springfield Nuclear Power Plant from the recent episode, CCJ represents the nuclear energy theme often satirized through Homer's workplace.

Cameco benefits from rising global demand for clean energy, with uranium prices up 20% YTD amid nuclear renaissance narratives. Q3 earnings beat expectations with a 25% revenue jump YoY. This mid-cap offers high growth potential and diversification from consumer-heavy holdings in the portfolio.

World's largest uranium producer, supplying fuel for nuclear power plants.

📌 Reflects Mr. Burns' monopolistic energy empire in last week's episode, capturing traditional energy dominance satirized in the show.

Exxon offers stability in an aggressive portfolio with strong cash flows and a high dividend yield amid elevated oil prices. Q3 results showed robust upstream earnings despite softening refining margins. Its low correlation with tech and consumer holdings enhances diversification.

Integrated oil and gas company with global exploration and production.

📌 Linked to Homer's bumbling role at the nuclear plant in the episode, ROK symbolizes industrial automation often parodied in workplace scenes.

Rockwell is a leader in factory automation, benefiting from reshoring trends and Industry 4.0 adoption. Recent earnings showed 10% YoY organic growth, driven by strong demand in automotive and food processing. This mid-cap adds cyclical growth exposure to the portfolio with low correlation to energy plays.

Provider of industrial automation and digital transformation solutions.

05	STOCK	SPOT Spotify Technology S.A. Entry: $515 Now: $515 177.82 shares Growth Kicker · medium conviction	9.7%	$91,566	+0.00%	-0.0%

📌 Inspired by background music and radio references in last week's episode, SPOT captures the modern entertainment consumption trend in Springfield.

Spotify continues to grow its user base (574M monthly active users) and monetization via ad-supported tiers and podcasts. Q3 showed 11% revenue growth YoY despite margin pressure. This holding adds high-growth tech exposure with cultural relevance to the portfolio.

Leading audio streaming platform with global user base.

06	CRYPTO	BTC Bitcoin Entry: $66,934 Now: $66,934 1.20 shares Tactical · high conviction	8.4%	$80,120	+0.00%	+0.0%

📌 Represents futuristic tech themes hinted at in last week's episode via a satirical 'digital currency' joke, aligning with Springfield's occasional tech-forward narratives.

Bitcoin benefits from macro tailwinds as a store of value amid inflation concerns and potential rate cuts in 2024. Recent momentum (up 50% YTD) supports near-term upside. Its uncorrelated returns provide a hedge against traditional equity risk in this aggressive portfolio.

Leading decentralized cryptocurrency by market cap.

07	ETF	CORN Teucrium Corn Fund Entry: $18 Now: $18 3,836.59 shares Diversifier · medium conviction	7.3%	$68,675	+0.00%	+0.0%

📌 Tied to agricultural references in last week's episode showing Springfield's rural outskirts, CORN captures food supply chain themes.

Corn prices are poised for upside amid geopolitical supply disruptions and strong demand for ethanol. This ETF offers pure-play exposure with low correlation to equities. It serves as an inflation hedge within the portfolio.

ETF tracking corn futures prices (expense ratio 1.00%).

08	STOCK	LYV Live Nation Entertainment, Inc. Entry: $162 Now: $162 423.53 shares Satellite · medium conviction	7.3%	$68,675	+0.00%	+0.0%

📌 Reflects a concert scene in last week's episode, capturing Springfield's community events and entertainment culture.

Live Nation is positioned for growth as live events rebound post-pandemic, with Q3 ticket sales up 13% YoY. Its dominance in venue management and Ticketmaster provides a competitive moat. This mid-cap adds consumer discretionary depth to the portfolio.

Global leader in live entertainment and ticketing services.

09	STOCK	TPR Tapestry, Inc. Entry: $155 Now: $155 368.08 shares Tactical · medium conviction	6.0%	$57,229	+0.00%	-0.0%

📌 Inspired by Marge's fashion-conscious moments in last week's episode, TPR captures aspirational consumer trends in Springfield.

Tapestry benefits from luxury demand in Asia and a recovering US market, with Q1 FY24 sales up 5% YoY. Its multi-brand portfolio mitigates single-label risk. This holding adds a niche consumer play with upside potential in an improving macro environment.

Luxury fashion holding company owning Coach, Kate Spade, and Stuart Weitzman.

10	ETF	GLD SPDR Gold Shares Entry: $484 Now: $484 118.30 shares Hedge · medium conviction	6.0%	$57,229	+0.00%	+0.0%

📌 Tied to a satirical 'get-rich-quick' scheme in last week's episode, GLD represents a safe-haven asset often mocked in Springfield's economic misadventures.

Gold serves as a portfolio hedge amid geopolitical uncertainty and sticky inflation. GLD offers liquid exposure with low correlation to equities and crypto. It provides downside protection in an aggressive strategy.

ETF tracking the price of gold bullion (expense ratio 0.40%).

—	CASH	Money Market (4.5% APY)	5.3%	$50,000	+4.5%/yr	—

etf simulator

AI-powered ETF simulation for education and portfolio research. Build, track, and manage investment strategies risk-free.

PLATFORM

ETF Builder
Leaderboard
My Portfolios

RESOURCES

Learn
FAQ
About Us
Contact
Roadmap
Pricing
API Docs (coming soon)
Support: support@etfsimulator.com

LEGAL

Terms of Service
Privacy Policy
Disclaimer

© 2026 ETF Simulator. All rights reserved.

Educational platform only. Not financial advice. All portfolio values, returns, and market data are simulated. Past performance does not guarantee future results. Consult a licensed financial advisor before making investment decisions.